ARIZONA TERRITORY.

A SKETCH.

A fine, long, tiresome ride on ocean, gulf and river from San Francisco to Arizona. One I have first time set my foot upon the soil of this much talked of and much abused Territory. Arizona City is indeed a dismal place, and impresses a stranger first entering the Territory very unfavorably. But outward appearances are deceiving; at least I found them so in this case; and yet, notwithstanding that I have been in the Territory about two months, traveling a greater portion of the time, and seen some of what I call nice country, I am told that I have not yet seen the best portions of the Territory, and that I must go to Northeastern Arizona if I wish to see a rich country. Be this as it may, I will write of what I have seen and heard.

From Arizona City we took the stage for Florence, a beautifully laid out town about 250 miles in the interior and about 70 miles from Tucson, the capital of the Territory. The road follows along the banks of the Gila river all the way, never leaving it more than four or five miles, except in crossing the desert. In the valley, which has an average width of about three miles, the land seems to be good. Away from the river or valley, there is nothing but immense sandy plains, dry and waterless, dotted here and there with mountains, whose sharp peaks pierce the sky. Nothing grows on these plains but a species of sage brush, and but few streams of water are to be met with. It seldom rains, and the sun is scorching hot. Arizona City, or rather Fort Yuma, right across the river from it, would be one of the hottest places in the United States.

At this bend we left the river and struck across the desert, 44 miles in width, striking the river again on this side, at Maricopa Wells. This desert is what I term the volcanic burnt district. The whole country seems to have been overrun by fire or overpowered by some internal upheavals, and goes down in deepest mourning. Marks of now extinct volcanoes are visible everywhere. Round rocks and stones of every size and shape lying around loose or piled up in the utmost chaos and confusion. I could not help remarking to myself as we came along, that I should like to see the crater that spit out all the rocks that lay around. One of the plain, a pretty Irishman, of course, made the remark that it would be a good place to build a church, as the congregation wouldn't steal. As there were nothing but rattlesnakes and cactus for fifty miles around, this remark was appreciated. It is certain that at some remote period there must have been a terrible quaking and roaring there, caused by more than ordinary fiery hell. The very ground now walks over seems to be hollow, and a dull, hollow, rumbling sound comes up at every step. There is no water, and travelers passing over it are obliged to carry water with them.

From Maricopa Wells we went to Florence, on the upper Gila, which town is located in one of the most beautiful valleys in the Territory. From Florence we struck across the desert, a distance of 60 miles, and at all the way, with no water and no shade. This is the most beautiful spot to look upon I have yet seen in Arizona, desert though it be in name. Such curious and beautiful trees, plants, and flowers; while the ground is covered with myriads of bright, sparkling stones—gems! from the minutest of a bird's egg; all sparkling and shining like the sun like so many diamonds! Of course, no one can live there. If it was vocal with the songs of birds and the hum of bees, it would be a glorious place, indeed! Camp Grant, we went to Tucson, through doleful and barren, over cactus and along the base of high mountains, a town of about 2,000 inhabitants, and of them being Mexicans, and one third Americans, men of energy and worth. It possesses a printing office, a bank, a hotel and about a dozen stores and saloons. It is surrounded by a good farming country, and there are some large and well cultivated ranches whose owners are making money. The great drawback to this portion of Arizona, is the want of timber and water, timber for building purposes. It seldom rains, and everything depends on irrigation—safe and sure, but expensive.

There are several large settlements on the Salt and Gila rivers under a complete system of irrigation; ranchers can flood their lands whenever they choose, and the result is enormous crops and heavy purses!

I have traveled over a good deal of the country lying between the Mississippi river and the Pacific coast; but I would as soon locate here and undertake to make a fortune as any place I know of. I believe that in none of our Territories can a fortune be made more quickly and easily than in Arizona.

As a stock-raising and pastoral country, it is destined at no distant day to be one of the best portions of the Union. It is eminently adapted to this business; its hills and valleys abound in rich, juicy grasses, and there is a sufficiency of pure mountain water, while the climate is so genial that there need not be the least provision made for winter.

The mineral wealth of Arizona, such as gold, silver, copper, iron and coal, is beyond calculation—it is inexhaustible! Her gold and silver mines, many of them known to be extremely rich, will yet create the biggest excitement the world has ever seen. California, in her most golden days, could not compare with the marvelous richness of this new El Dorado. These are not mere suppositions of an excited fancy, but stubborn facts, based upon close, critical observation and the most reliable information.

The real wealth of Arizona has never been known outside her borders, unless, perchance, some luckless wight wandered beyond the Territorial limits, told the story of its richness, and was sneered at and his words treated as some fabulous tale hatched out by the overheated fancy of a half crazy man. But the day will come when these scoffers will be making for Arizona as fast as steam can bring them.

Arizona has had many drawbacks and difficulties to encounter, but she still holds up her head. Her brave citizens have been shot down, their families murdered and scalped, and their property destroyed by the infernal Apaches; and all this not being enough, they were slandered and abused by outsiders, who should have been their friends. All the privations, dangers and suffering incident to border life was not enough, their enemies must add insult to injury. But they struggled manfully and nobly up through these long years of suffering, all the while calling on Government for help. No help came; but they are not discouraged; still they are brave and full of hope, believing that the darkest hour is just before the break of day—the day with its bright sunshine and blessed peace! and knowing in their heart of hearts that Arizona, having come up through blood and tears, purified by her trials and suffering, and saved by the indomitable bravery of her citizens, will yet be the brightest gem in the Union Crown.

Her greatest bane has ever been the accused policy the Government has always pursued towards the Apaches; but a brighter day is dawning upon her. Presently she will have plenty of railroads, thanks to Tom Scott, the unconquerable railroad king; and with them comes civilization, men and women, money and guns—everything! By this great tidal wave of immigration the Apache will be swept back, conquered or destroyed. Then the Government may withdraw its troops and its Indian policy, for the Territory will be able to take care of itself. Then her hills and valleys will be covered with fat cattle and sheep, whose numbers will almost be beyond calculation; her thousand mines of precious metals will be worked and her wonderful mineral resources developed and opened to the world, and Arizona will shoot up like a meteor to her proper place in the bright galaxy of States. May God speed the time and come to the relief of this suffering Territory.

ALEX. F. NET.

FLORENCE, A. T., October 15, 1872.

Roster of Troops.

Some friend at Headquarters has favored us with a copy of a neatly printed pamphlet, giving all necessary information concerning officers, enlisted men, posts, &c., in this Department. The pamphlet is dated October 1st, and its compilation reflects credit upon the officer who arranged it.

A Good Joke on Greeley.

Postmaster Jones, of New York, tells a good campaign story for Horace Greeley. Some time ago one Norton, cashier of the postoffice turned out a defaulter, and the United States Government came down on his securities, among whom was Horace Greeley, responsible to the extent of about $30,000. Greeley was very reticent under this obligation, and he is in so much fear of debt that he immediately wanted to give his check for the whole sum and get it off his mind. Finally a meeting of the endorsers was held, and Mr. Greeley put on his spectacles, took up his hand, and dolefully read over the conditions, "They say I write an infernally bad hand," said Greeley, "but they can read it plainly enough when it gets on one of these things."

FROM MARICOPA COUNTY.

PHOENIX, Maricopa County, A. T., October 25th, 1872.
To the Editor of the Arizona Miner:

Times are not quite as lively as they were some time ago, yet Salt River valley is improving, the town of Phoenix is growing, and the people, pursuing business and pleasure. In all parts of the valley, new ditches are being made, old ones being repaired, and sowing has commenced. In the town, building is being pushed forward rapidly and improvement is the order of the day.

A Wedding.

Last evening a wedding took place in town. The happy pair, Mr. P. Van Haren and Miss D. Grania, were united in marriage by the Hon. C. A. Tweed. A few invited friends witnessed the ceremony.

On Sunday.

Last, we attended two of a series of meetings held in an arbor at Mesquite, by the Rev. A. Groves. The meetings were interesting and were well attended. We observed one feature in them, remarkable for Arizona: the ladies outnumbered the gentlemen, nearly two to one.

The Apaches.

J. Chamberlin arrived in this valley yesterday, with his family, from Gila Bend, driven off by the Indians. It appears that while Mr. Chamberlin was up here on business, about three weeks ago, the Apaches visited the Bend, stole some animals and approached within twenty-five yards of the building containing his family, evidently with the intention of running off two cows which were close to the house. This was too much and he does not intend to take such chances in the future.

Agricultural News.

J. Roman, an old wine grower from California, is about to go into the business here, in company with G. Roberts.

M. Morrell, at Mesquite, is running a home-made sugar mill and extracting syrup from sorghum therewith, at the rate of fifteen gallons per day.

G. D. Rumberg's patent sugar mill will be in operation soon.

Mr. Orme commented sowing a week ago. Extensive preparations for farming are being made on the Monterey ditch.

Barnett & Block have let out two large contracts for the clearing of land.

Dr. Wellman is taking a new ditch out of the Verde, above the McDowell Indian Reservation.

A new ditch is about to be taken out of Salt River at Maryville.

J. A. Chenoweth raised a sample of excellent cotton on his ranch, this year. A peach tree set out by him in the spring, produced two peaches.

Some sugar cane, grown on the ranch of T. C. Warden, this year, is pronounced by experts to be equal to the best Louisiana.

Items.

Mail communication is now had regularly with Tempe.

Wm. Smith has sold out the remainder of his stock of merchandise to Barnett & Block. The baker has specimens of gold and silver ore found in the hills south of Salt River, about five miles from town.

It is reported here that the Mexicans undertook to drive the Americans from the Plancha de Plata mines, when about twenty of the latter whipped over two hundred of the former.

A man drew a rifle on C. Block the other day, apparently with the intention of shooting. Charley belabored him well with his fists, since which time the fellow evinces a very peaceable disposition.

Personal.

Col. Head was in town on Saturday. Gen. Crittenden passed through here on Sunday, en route to Prescott.

This morning, Wm. Smith and W. A. Hancock left for Wallapai.

Shipments for the Week.

Wm. 115,000 lbs. of barley to Wallapai. Mannasse, one load of wheat to Wickenburg.

Barnett & Block, seventeen mule teams and two ox teams, with livery to the northern posts.

Good Indians.

We read, with pleasure, in a recent New York Herald, a short despatch from the "Indian Nation," to the effect that the Chickasaw Legislature had passed a bill memorializing Congress to allot their lands in severalty, and calling on the Choctaws to join them in their request. This is regarded as an advanced step towards opening the Indian Territory to white settlement this winter.

More than this, it leads us to hope that when Congress meets in December next, the Indians will be prepared to give a portion of their lands to the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, which duly awaits such action, to enable them to rush their railroad to the Pacific.

Captain T. S. Dunn, formerly in command of Camp Lowell, Tucson, was recently tried at San Francisco, on charges of "conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman," and "preaching or causing to be preached, a fraudulent claim against the United States." He denied being guilty of either charge, and was returned to duty by the Court.

From Pima County.

From the Tucson Citizen of October 12 we condense the following items of interest:

A school was about being opened at Camp Grant.

Adam Sanders and Librada Rivera were married, at Tucson, on the 5th inst.

Several persons had announced themselves as independent candidates for Constable, while here in Prescott it is a difficult job to get anybody to have said office.

A fine rain descended on October 10.

Rich gold mines were recently found in Sonora, just over the line.

John Dubs, who was recently crippled by Apaches, near Camp Bowie, was being helped with money to defray his expenses to his old home in Kentucky.

Judge C. T. Hayden had departed for the States.

Lieut. R. H. Poillon, commanding Camp Lowell, had been presented with a set of shirt jewelry, accompanied by a card of thanks, from E. H. Leib, Captain, 5th Cavalry; Sam'l S. Sumner, Captain, 5th Cavalry; J. T. Haskell, Captain, 23d Infantry; James Thompson, Captain, 23d Infantry; Charles Bendire, First Lieutenant, 1st Cavalry; Charles Bird, First Lieutenant, 23d Infantry, in token of their appreciation of the Lieutenant's kindness, &c., while they were sojourning at his post, on court-martial duty.

Another Necessity.

There is no direct mail communication between this place and the regions which contain Yavapai, Hardyville and Pioche. The communications of the two latter with the Pacific Coast are a circuitous and attended with delay. The people of Hardyville and the Sacramento District, though much nearer to the coast, get their mails through this place by way of Prescott, and the circumstance cannot be in the least pleasing to the reflection of those intended to be benefited. This should no longer be. The Pioche, Yavapai, and Wallapai Districts instead of being dry districts as was supposed a few years ago, are becoming more populous and interesting every day. Their mines so far as tested, prove to be of the richest and most tempting character; needing only railroads and mail facilities to elevate them to the standard of the famed silver fields of Utah. There should by all means be a mail route opened between this place and the districts in question. A petition for the purpose was circulated some months ago, which, from the silence that has supervened, is supposed to have fallen still-born.

The foregoing is from the Guardian, of San Bernardino, California. Its statements with one exception, are true. The exception is that the people of Wallapai District get their California and Eastern mail by way of Prescott. Sometimes, letters and papers for citizens of Wallapai have been mislaid, by postmasters to Prescott, but, our postmaster has gone to the trouble of enlightening other postmasters concerning their duty in this respect, which duty is to send all mail matter for Wallapai via Ehrenberg, Mohave City and Hardyville, to towns in Wallapai District.

But mail service is badly needed on a direct route, via the growing places mentioned by the Guardian, and, but for the carelessness, laziness, or some other fault of California's Senators and Congressmen, the citizens of those regions would now be in the enjoyment of this facility.

San Bernardino, San Diego, Wilmington and other coast towns ought to look after the petition spoken of by the Guardian. And Los Angeles, too, if the new route from Indian Wells does not pass through her limits.

Idaho Savages.

The telegraph reports the "noble Reds," of Idaho Territory as having lately killed some white people and robbed others of their property.

The Santa Fe Union speaks highly of Capt. John L. Viven, U. S. A., now stationed at Fort Yuma, California. We have met Capt. Viven and agree with what our New Mexican contemporary thinks of him.

Willis B. Machen, whom the Governor of Kentucky has recently appointed to fill the Senatorial vacancy caused by the death of Garrett Davis, is a native of Kentucky, of ripe age, considerable experience and sound mind.

Mr. Seward was in his 73d year at the time of his death. His property, amounting to about $300,000, is to be divided between his sons and adopted daughter.

The President has issued his regular annual proclamation of Thanksgiving Day. It will be on November 28th.

Messrs. Campbell & Baker of Prescott, A. T., were here in the early part of the week, with a herd of 700 head of beef cattle destined for the Prescott market. Mr. Campbell is the senior partner of the well known mercantile firm of Campbell & Buffum, of Prescott. He bought while here, from L. H. Hening of Los Lunas, a large amount of flour for his house. Mr. Campbell is a thorough liberal business man whom we will always be glad to see around these "excavations." He like many here, regrets the unaccountable delay of the contractor for the Albuquerque and Prescott mail route, in not putting service upon the road as in duty bound. This route, as per stipulation, should have service on it last fourth of July. Why it has not been put on, is a question asked by every one but answered by none. Would it not be advisable that the residents both of Prescott and Albuquerque submit a joint petition to the Postmaster General, asking him to make the contractor fill his contract, or give it to some one who will?—Albuquerque, N. M., Reviewer, Oct. 12.
